Dear Dental and Orthodontic Professionals:

This letter is in response to your request for information on Solventum dental and orthodontic products containing acrylate substance(s). As part of our long-standing commitment to health and safety, we have performed biocompatibility evaluations on Solventum dental and orthodontic products containing acrylates and found them to be safe for their intended use.

We are aware of the sensitizing potential of acrylate substances in certain individuals, including the possibility of a cross-sensitization reaction to any compound with an acrylate functional group (e.g., methacrylates). For this reason, Solventum does not recommend usage of products containing acrylates on any individual with a known sensitivity to these compounds.

If you have additional questions, please contact our Customer Care Center at 1-800-634-2249 (US) or 0049-800-275-3773 (Germany).

Thank you for your interest in Solventum dental and orthodontic products.
