Dear Dental and Orthodontic Professionals:

This letter is in response to your request for information on Animal-Derived Materials (ADM) in Solventum dental and orthodontic products. No ADMs are intentionally added to Solventum dental and orthodontic products. Certain substances in the supply chain of Solventum dental and orthodontic products utilize ADMs in upstream manufacturing processes. However, ADMs used in upstream manufacturing processes undergo rigorous processing to eliminate the potential for transmission of infectious disease.

As part of our long-standing commitment to health and safety, Solventum has performed biocompatibility evaluations on all Solventum dental and orthodontic products according to international standards and found them to be safe for their intended use.
